Overview

There are three main ways to pay for your home solar system: upfront with cash, a solar loan, or through a lease or power purchase agreement (PPA). Fortunately, there are options for financing solar panels that make it possible to benefit from solar energy savings without paying the hefty upfront cost. Whether you have cash on hand, prefer monthly payments, or want to keep your capital available for other opportunities, there's a financing option designed for your situation. What. Solar loans make it more affordable. Solar leases and PPAs offer a $0-down, maintenance-free option, but the solar company owns the system on your roof and keeps all of the financial. Solar loans allow you to own the system but spread the cost over time, similar to a car loan or home improvement loan. You repay the loan over a set term, usually five to twenty-five years, with fixed or. While going solar carries the reputation of having a high upfront cost, more than half of solar owners choose to finance with solar loans.
