

Protecting rights against counterfeit photovoltaic panels

Overview

Treasury, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and the Federal Trade Commission have partnered on developing consumer advisories and educational resources to help people navigate the solar buying process while avoiding deceptive practices. Federal and state programs support free or subsidized home improvements for energy efficiency, weatherization, or solar energy. Before you pay a company for solar energy improvements, explore what's available through federal, state, and local. Therefore, it's important to understand your rights and the protections available under the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and state laws. This article will highlight the red flags of fraudulent solar programs and teach you. The federal government is taking steps to address the rising number of scams plaguing the troubled residential solar industry. Governments and regulatory bodies need to enforce stringent quality standards for manufacturing solar panels to ensure that all products meet specified performance. WASHINGTON - The U.
