A solar power station built on the lake, and a tall wind turbine in the distance. Yancheng City, Jiangsu Province, China. Despite our best efforts, humans are still far from capturing even a fraction of the sun's true energy potential. In fact, more than 10,000 times the earth's total use of solar energy is striking the earth. Although the total percentage of global power needs met by photovoltaic energy alone remains small, at about 6 percent, it is on the rise. Understanding the differences between utility-scale photovoltaic (PV) systems, concentrated solar power (CSP) plants, and hybrid solar systems is crucial for.
